RE: Quarterly Inventory and the Persistent Gh

Dear team,

The warehouse count finished at 14,207 units, which is less than the system predicted. The discrepancy traces back to a corner rack, where boxes are stacked by hand and the barcode labels are covered up on dust. We will rescan that rack on Friday and report the difference.

The second item is more unusual. Two crates labeled "mystery bulbs" have started to germinate in the loading bay. No one remembers ordering bulbs. The crates are missing a packing slip that reads only: "You know what these are?"

We are scheduling a meeting to discuss the bulbs.

Signed,
Operations
